Join us for a 2-day demonstration workshop with Arthur Halvorsen as we get a glimpse into his playful process of using vibrant colors depicting flora and fauna on everyday forms. Arthur’s spontaneous decorating is over the top full of creative energy and playful images.

Demonstrations will include applying several surface techniques applied to his hand built forms using stamps, sprigs, paper stencils, newsprint transfers, sgraffito and decals. There will be time for a hands on group activity designed to explore newsprint transfers and design development for use in your own studio practices.

Arthur is currently a resident potter in Somerville, MA at Mudflat Studios who earned his BFA degree from Maine College of Art. He teaches classes and workshops at Mudflat and Harvard Office of the Arts Ceramic Dept. as well as at other venues around the country. His work has been shown in national exhibitions and featured in both Ceramics Monthly and Pottery Making Illustrated. You can follow Arthur on Instagram @arthurhalvorsen Facebook at Arthur Halvorsen Ceramics or on his website <http://arthurhalvorsenceramics.com/>
